

小谢尔顿-S01E06-音频

I have a special treat for y'all today.

我今天给大家准备了一个特别的惊喜。

My dear friend and former college roommate is here from the Johnson Space Center in Houston to talk to us about our space program.

我亲爱的朋友兼前大学室友从休斯顿的约翰逊航天中心来这里和我们谈谈我们的太空计划。

And yeah, I know what you're thinking.

而且我知道你在想什么。

These guys were roomies.

这些家伙是室友。

How does one go on to be a fancy scientist at NASA and the other's teaching freshman science at a public high school?

一个人是如何成为美国国家航空航天局的高级科学家，而另一个人却在公立高中教新生科学的？

Yeah, Sheldon?

是吗,谢尔顿？

I was thinking that.

我在这么想。

Thank you.

谢谢

All right, let's give a warm welcome to my good buddy, Dr. Ronald Hodges.

好的，让我们热烈欢迎我的好朋友，罗纳德·霍奇斯博士。

Hey, kids.

嘿,孩子们。

Hey, glad to be here.

嘿，很高兴在这里。

And, Hubert, the answer to your question is one of those roomies was busy studying while the other was out chasing high school girls.

而且，哈伯特，你的问题的答案是其中一个室友正在忙着学习，而另一个则在外面追高中女生。

Yeah.

是的。

To be clear, they were all over 18.

为了明确一点，他们全都超过18岁。

Now, what I thought would be fun to talk about today is what NASA's planning on doing beyond the space shuttle.

今天我想讨论的是美国国家航空航天局在航天飞机之后计划要做的事情。

Things like the first manned mission to Mars.

像第一次载人火星任务这样的事情。

Yeah.

是的。

Did you see the movie Aliens?

你看过电影《异形》吗？

I did.

Now, of course, before we can set out to explore the solar system, we've got a few minor problems to overcome.

现在，当然，在我们能够开始探索太阳系之前，我们还有一些小问题需要解决。

Not the least of which is, every time we launch, it costs the U.S. taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

不仅如此，每次发射都会花费美国纳税人数十亿美元。

Oh, no, no, no, no.

哦，不，不，不，不。

Yes?

是的？

If you want to save money, why don't you land the booster rockets instead of letting them drop in the ocean?

如果你想省钱，为什么不回收助推火箭，而是让它们掉进海里呢？

That's a cute idea, but it's not technically possible.

那是个可爱的想法，但技术上不可行。

Why not?

为什么不呢？

Well, it's hard to explain.

嗯，这很难解释。

The math is pretty complicated.

Why don't you have your mom sew that on your book bag?

为什么不让你妈妈给你把那个缝在书包上呢？

Now, who here wants to know how astronauts go to the bathroom?

现在，这里谁想了解宇航员是如何上厕所的？

Oh, right.

哦对

See, now during liftoff, all the astronauts wear diapers.

你看，现在在发射时，所有宇航员都穿尿不湿。

People often wonder why I chose to pursue a career in theoretical physics.

人们经常想知道我为什么选择从事理论物理学的职业。

I usually respond by saying I wanted to unravel the inner workings of the universe.

我通常会回答说我想揭开宇宙运行的内在原理。

Perhaps when Captain Kirk said to boldly go, he meant in one of those.

也许当柯克船长说要大胆地去的时候，他指的是乘坐其中一个。
